

Global Competence – (45 hours)

Objective (45 hours course)

Previous assumptions about the world are rapidly becoming obsolete. Globalization, the digital revolution, mass migration, and the prospect of climate instability are triggering new concerns and demanding new kind of students and professionals, individuals with certain skills and capabilities that together constitute what we define as “global competence”.

This subject will introduce the concept of global competence as an important tool for the preparation of students in order to face the challenges of a diverse working environment and globalized world.

Besides the learning of the theory related to the subject, participants will experience the different skills that are considered global competences through their active participation in cross-cultural activities, case studies and research conducted in class.
