

History and International Relations in Latin America (45 hours – 3 American Credits – 5 ECTS)

Professors in Charge: Vinícius Rodrigues Vieira, Ph.D

Various professors from Brazil and Latam will deliver lectures in this subject.

Language of Instruction: English

Objectives: The main objective of this subject is to encourage debate on the main historical experiences of the Latin American region, with a focus on the influences of the hegemonic powers of the 19th and 20th centuries, as well as discuss the panorama of international relations within and outside the region.

Programme: Historical experiences of Latin America; relations of hegemonic influences with the United Kingdom and the United States of America in the 19th and 20th centuries and the positioning of Latin America in the post-colonial world.

Methodology: In-person classes (on the FAAP campus), synchronous and asynchronous, held in the Virtual Learning Environment, using the academic and administrative management tool Canvas and the online communication tools Zoom and/or Teams. In the same environment, students are offered support and consultation material, such as texts and videos, and interaction between students and the teacher is encouraged through forums.

Estimated works and tests: Continuous assessment activities under the responsibility of the subject teacher, carried out in the Virtual Learning Environment.
